2010 LIVESTOCK EXPO

May 21, 22, 23

Our region's livestock producers are starting to buck the trend in local agriculture by showing growth in the number of animals and farms, as they capitalize on new markets and the interest in locally grown and all natural foods. But they need help to reach their potential.

Expanding upon the highly successful Maine-New England Beef Expo and the first Northeast Livestock Expo in 2007, which was a landmark event for our state and region's livestock producers, the same opportunities exist again this year for Sheep and Boer Goat producers to market their animals and bring together their youth for a weekend long learning experience.

In addition to the Northeast Livestock Expo providing opportunities for farms to buy and sell some premier breeding stock and meat animals, we are inviting the public to see, learn about and gain a better understanding of our livestock commodities.

We would like to invite you to join this exciting event by becoming a sponsor, which will insure a greater return to the farms participating and enable us to offer an outstanding program for the youth that participate.
